

MY HEART IS OPEN TO NEW LOVE

I welcome new love into my life and heart. I am happy to start a new relationship that enriches my life.

I am ready for love to enter my world.

I am ready to have a fulfilling and stable relationship with a new partner. I want a partner who understands me and adds to my joy.

I know the past is gone, so previous relationships are unable to diminish my search for love. I am aware of the lessons these relationships presented. I am grateful for each person I meet on my journey to find true love.

I understand every relationship takes effort and time to develop.

I am ready to open my heart to a new person today. I am aware of my place in the universe and know my love is real.

I want to let a new person into my heart.

I attract love and cherish it. I trust my heart and my mind to make positive relationship choices. I understand the universe gives me life lessons while I search for a partner. However, I bravely accept all the challenges that come with a new relationship. I let go of my selfish desires and welcome true affection.

Today, I focus on allowing new love into my life. My heart stays open for relationship possibilities.

REFLECTION QUESTIONS

1

How can I prepare myself to welcome a new relationship into my life?

2

What lessons have I learned from past relationships that will help me in future ones?

3

How can I stay open to new relationship possibilities and remain hopeful about love?